

Virginia Commonwealth University School of Medicine
Office of Continuing Professional Development and Evaluations Studies
(CPDE)

POLICY ON CONFLICT OF INTEREST DISCLOSURE

The Office of Continuing Professional Development and Evaluation Studies (CPDE) administers the continuing medical education (CME) program of the School of Medicine, Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU). CPDE helps to assure compliance with all VCU School of Medicine and the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) Essentials and the Standards for Commercial Support of Continuing Medical Education (see www.accme.org). As the administrative arm of an accredited provider, VCU CPDE must insure balance, independence, objectivity, and scientific rigor in all VCU sponsored CME activities. All continuing medical education activities that involve School of Medicine faculty or staff and are presented under the auspices of VCU must be reviewed for compliance by the Associate Dean for Continuing Professional Development and Evaluation Studies, with appeals to the Dean. The decision of the Dean will be final.

All persons involved in the planning (e.g., planning committee members and select CPDE faculty and staff), and faculty participating in a VCU-sponsored activity must disclose to VCU, and VCU must announce to the audience, any relevant financial relationship(s) with: (1) the manufacturer(s) of any commercial product(s) and (2) provider(s) of any commercial services discussed in an educational activity. Relevant financial interests or other relationships can include (but are not limited to) such things as grants or research support, status as an employee, consultant, major stock holder, and/or member of speakers' bureaus within the last 12 months. These relationships must be disclosed for the speaker themselves, as well as for their spouse/partner.

Any individual who refuses to provide the required disclosure will be disqualified from participation in this activity as a speaker, planning committee member, or support staff, or credit for the activity or pertinent segment of the activity, will not be designated.

Departments, divisions, or planning partners with recurrent problems in assuring independence and control of content securing Conflict of Interest disclosure forms, or managing commercial support, may lose the privilege of designated credit, by administrative decision of the Associate Dean for Continuing Professional Development and Evaluation Studies, with appeals to the Dean, School of Medicine, and all decisions of the Dean being final.

Approved May 25, 2005