Guidelines: Student code of conduct and honor system

Each course director should be familiar with the VCU Code of Conduct and Honor System. In a situation involving an alleged infraction, course directors/instructors should

(i) report suspected violations of conduct and honor policies to the Office of Student Conduct and Academic Integrity

(ii) take no other initial actions except, for example, in situations involving student/instructor safety

(iii) treat students involved in reports like all other students while the students' cases are being processed by the Office of Student Conduct and Academic Integrity

(iv) take additional actions toward students involved in reports only as directed by the Office of Student Conduct and Academic Integrity

(v) contact the Associate Dean for Graduate Education for guidance as necessary
